The Battle at Williamsburg.

We are indebted to a highly-circulated friend at Petersburg for a part of the following account of the battle at Williamsburg.

Our correspondence furnishes some additional news from the battle field which is not calculated to produce great interest in this community.

The gallant Captain of the Randolph Riflemen, Capt. Irwin and Lieuts. Alexander and Thompson are reported as being seriously wounded, and that out of fifty-three men who went into the fight only twenty-five answered to the call of the roll after the battle.

Our friends must not give way to gloomy conjectures on perusing the report. Their friends and relatives may have become scattered during the engagement, and it is not known for certain that they have been captured immediately after the conflict left the field.

The next advices from the army may convey more cheering intelligence.

The Randolph Rifles have undoubtedly fought bravely and suffered greatly in the loss of their brave and accomplished officers.

Confederate Currency.

The Memphis Appeal of the 27th ult. says:

Confederate money is now current in Nashville at a discount of only fifteen per cent, passing at eighty-five cents on the dollar in exchange for notes on all Tennessee banks.

We are informed that the sellers of the Federal army even take it at this rate in payment for provisions.

A special dispatch from Washington to the New York Times says that it was rumored that all the members of Congress from the Border States and a number of conservative members sympathizing with them from the other States, were seriously considering the propriety of withdrawing from the Union.

It is the mainstay of the Confederacy, and the free acceptance of it is the basis of our Government's credit. Whatever we do in this severe hour of trial and disaster, let no traitorous hand dare seek to stab our cause, by refusing the currency of our Confederate Government.

THE LATEST NEWS.

We are indebted to the office of the Richmond Examiner for the annexed important items of news in reference to the engagement on the 5th inst., at Williamsburg and the fight that is reported to have ensued at Barboursville, about 18 miles above Williamsburg.

Later from the Peninsula.

We obtained last night additional particulars of the action on Monday. General Longstreet's division, about 6,000 strong, was engaged with the enemy from sunrise to sunset. The action occurred about a mile below Williamsburg. The fighting is described to have been very severe, but the enemy was repelled and driven back at every point.

At one time, under the deception of a white flag, a considerable portion of the enemy got within forty paces of our lines. The fire was carried on from the main body, while the main body were concealed in the woods and lying down in the bushes. A murderous fire was thus poured into our ranks.

A complete victory was achieved by us on Monday, but it is impossible to ascertain with accuracy the statement of its results in the amount of loss on either side, the number of prisoners taken, &c.

A courier reached here last night stating that he had passed three hundred and twenty-five Yankee prisoners on their way to Richmond.

Latest from the Peninsula.

At a late hour last night dispatches addressed to Gen. Lee reached here by the hands of a courier.

A general action took place yesterday, the enemy, with the bulk of his strength, having engaged our lines at a place called Barboursville, in New River county, about thirty-three miles from this city.

The courier left at 12 o'clock, at which time the action had become general. The fighting commenced in the morning with heavy skirmishing. The statement of the courier is that, in the morning's fight, we had repelled the enemy four times.

At a later hour positive information was received that the enemy were landing immense forces from their transports and transports at Barbour's Mills.

The demonstration of the enemy appears to imply a flank movement with their transports.

IT IS NOW TOO LATE TO RETREAT FROM THE CONFEDERACY.

THERE IS NO RETREAT BUT IN DEATH AND SLAVERY.

There is no alternative but to fight.

The Government of the Southern States has no influence upon the affairs of the Southern States, a matter which was previously almost entirely unknown.

There is an important point gained, for these parties have a great influence upon the country at large, and your despatch has not made me very sanguine, but it has done good and substantial work.

I need not recall to your memory what the Minister paid you in case of the interview you had, if you will give me the sum to have a gratuity.

Allow me, sir, in closing this letter to say that I trust the Ambassador of the Confederate States will not forget the promise made by the Rev. T. Butler King to his most trusted friend, yourself.
